

Training Begins. . .
With CARE

Our Philosophy centers on helping you learn to create a positive and successful training experience with your dog through CARE.

Be Consistent. Let your dog know what you expect. Learn to set clear expectations and to always enforce the rules you establish, using positive reinforcement to make the training enjoyable for both of you.

Be Accepting. Each breed has its unique requirements and each dog has its special "personality". Learn how to give commands that your dog understands. This will result in a mutually respectful and satisfying relationship.

Be Realistic. Learning and behavioral changes only occur through regular practice. Make a commitment to routinely practice in order to reinforce good habits in both you and your dog. This will increase your level of confidence in each other and yourselves.

Be Earnest. Ask yourself if you are doing what's needed to help you and your dog succeed. Getting professional coaching from an experienced certified trainer is often the right step to ensure immediate and long term success.

"Having a professional trainer was the best present to our entire family. We all learned a lot, and we greatly appreciate the gentle--but firm!--approach and the flexibility in dealing with problems. We would definitely use Pro Dog again and highly recommend you."

Training Begins . . . With You

Years ago, when dogs were kept in the back yard, their manners left a lot to be desired. This was not such a big problem then. Today, things are very different. As people have become more security conscious, they have brought their pets into the home. Along with this, they have discovered both the joys and the frustrations of having a loyal companion as part of the family.

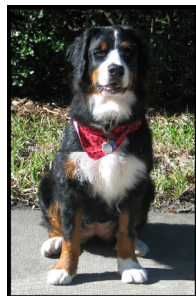

Back yard behavior is no longer acceptable because it simply does not fit with today's lifestyle. Just as small children must learn the proper way to behave, your dog must be taught how to become a family member and live by the family rules. And, just like most small children, most dogs want to please you. They just need to be taught how!

It's all up to you! Start your training as soon as you get your puppy. Stop unwanted behavior before it starts. Replace bad habits with good ones. If you're having a problem with training, get some coaching from a Certified Professional!

"Susan was wonderful. She was consistent and our strong headed 90+ pound puppy, Berner, is on her way to being quite a well behaved lady. We are still working with her everyday; but now that the parents have been trained so successfully, we have all the basic tools. Thanks Pro Dog!"

Training Begins . . . at Home

Pro Dog Training is committed to helping you become the "proactive leader" in building a positive partnership with your dog. We believe in training primarily at your home because that is where your dog lives and learns how to become part of your family. That is also where behavior problems, if left untreated, will cause the most disruption for you and your family. On an individualized basis, if your dog needs behavior modification in other selected settings, sessions may also be conducted outside the home.

We believe that our gentle and consistent in-home training taught with positive reinforcement is much more effective in helping you and your dog enjoy years of enjoyment and companionship together.

"Our entire family wants to thank you for the fantastic job you did with Henry and Leah. Thank you so much for teaching them and us all the wonderful techniques used in helping them become better pets. We couldn't have done this without you!"
